SALLY ROGERS work as a quilter spans 55 of my 65 years on the planet. I learned to sew at age 10, made my first quilt at 16 and have continued to sew and make quilts ever since. My limitation is mostly time. I always save my quilting for my “free” time, which is quite limited due to my other artistic (musical) and domestic (wife and mother) commitments. As a result, my quilting gets done in fits and starts and I usually attempt to only attack projects that can be completed in less than 3 days, start to finish. I have hundreds of accumulated ideas and challenges for the needle lined up, waiting in my brain, with no time to thread the needle.

Although I’m mostly known as a professional folksinger, songwriter and educator, my “chocolate” is found at my sewing machine. Locally, I helped found the group Quilters: Piece for Peace in the 1980’s. We made and raffled off three lovely peace quilts raising money and awareness for the Nuclear Freeze Movement. All three of those quilts were quilted by hand and two were given to the Thomas
